Professional Summary

I am a dedicated educator who is professional, self-disciplined, and well-mannered. I also consider myself to be caring and considerate of students, families, and colleagues. Part of my attitude is to be a hardworking and self-driven individual with excellent organizational skills. The other part of my attitude consists of strong community values and principles. It is my belief that it takes a family, community, and school to raise a child. Being bilingual in English and Spanish gives me the opportunity to cater, appeal, and work with both English and Spanish speaking students and parents to better suit their needs. I also have a conviction that educators must provide an environment that enhances and encourages the fundamental concept of teaching and learning. Academically, I received a Bachelor of Arts degree in History and attained a Master's degree in Educational Leadership, both through Florida Atlantic University.
