Algae

The only break came about three weeks ago when Ashley's husband, Brett, ran a boat in the canal to let the propeller break up the bloom.

"Maybe you're not supposed to do that," Juliet Ashley said, "but the smell was so horrific we couldn't have survived otherwise."

You're not supposed to do that, as it stirs up the algae and can put toxins in the air.

In the last few days, Ashley said, "the blue patches have come back."

The sky-blue patches sometimes seen on thick blooms indicate some of the algae cells are dying and losing their chlorophyll, much like tree leaves that turn bright colors as they die in the au-turn.

It's ba-a-ack

The Riverland Mobile Home Park marina along the South Fork of the St. Lucie River was one of the first sites in Stuart to get an algae bloom in June.

The algae "let up for a while," said park groundskeeper Tom Nolin. "It wasn't so bad the first week or so in August. But since last weekend, it's been back and it's looked like this."

"This" is a mostly solid sheet of green slime that can be seen coming in from the South Fork at the south end of the marina, building up around docked boats and in still water and then exiting back into the river at the north end of the facility.

"That's what's saving us," Nolin said, pointing to sheets of algae leaving the marina on an outgoing tide. "If we didn't

Keep coming

As long as water is being discharged from Lake Okechobee, expect the blooms to keep coming as well, said Ed Philips, an algae expert at the University of Florida.

"The discharges control the situation," Philips said. "Without the discharges, there's a balancing act of water coming into the estuary from canals and other sources, and water flushed out the (St. Lucie) Inlet. But when you've got all that water, some of it containing algae, coming from the lake, you're going to have blooms."

A satellite image taken Friday shows algae covering about half of Lake O's open water, with thick blooms on the eastern side near the Port Mayaca Lock and Dam, where lake water is discharged toward the St. Lucie River.

have a way for the algae to get out, it would be really thick in here."

In the early morning calm Tuesday, Nolin said, wide stands of algae could be seen "all across the river. It's thicker in the river than I've seen it all year."

NOTICE OF HEARING TO IMPOSE AND PROVIDE FOR COLLECTION OF SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Martin County, Florida, will conduct a public hearing to consider creation of the S.E. Flamingo Drive/S.E. Karin Street Municipal Service Benefit Unit, as shown above, and to impose special assessments against certain parcels of property located therein. The public hearing was previously scheduled to occur on August 21, 2018. The hearing will now be held at 9:00 A.M., or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, on September 11, 2018 in the County Commission Chambers of the Martin County Administration Building at 2401 S.E. Monterey Road, Stuart, Florida for the purpose of receiving public comment on the proposed MSBU and assessments. If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact the Office of the County Administrator at 772/221-2360, or in writing to 2401 S.E. Monterey Road, Stuart, Florida 34996, at least three days prior to the public hearing. If you are hearing or voice impaired, please call 772/288-5940. All affected property owners have a right to appear at the hearing and to file written objections with the Board of County Commissioners within 30 days of this notice. If a person wishes to appeal any decision made by the Board of County Commissioners with respect to any matter considered at the hearing, such person will need a record of the proceedings and may need to ensure that a verbatim record is made, including the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be made.

The Assessments have been proposed to fund construction of road improvements. The assessment for each parcel of property will be based upon the total number of parcel units (approximate number of potential dwelling units permitted to be built on each platted lot or parcel of record). A more specific description is set forth in the Initial Assessment Resolution adopted by the County Commission on July 10, 2018. Copies of the Initial Assessment Resolution, the plans and specifications for the road improvements and the preliminary assessment will be available for inspection at the offices of the County Public Works Department (as designated by the County Administrator), located at 2401 S.E. Monterey Road, Stuart, Florida.

The assessments will be collected on the ad valorem tax bill, as authorized by Section 197.3632, Florida Statutes. Failure to pay the assessments will cause a tax certificate to be issued against the property which may result in a loss of title. The County Commission intends to collect the assessments in fifteen (15) annual assessments, the first of which will be included on the ad valorem tax bill to be mailed in November 2018. Future annual assessments may be prepaid, in whole, at the option of the property owner.

If you have any questions, please contact the Martin County Public Works Department at (772) 465-2837.
